Summary: Words for superheroes (and others) to live by ...

The following list just goes to show that everything from a children's taunt to a couple of Shakespeare's most famous quotes can be adapted to the L&C universe.

- 10) Young Clark: Sticks and stones may break my – Oh, never mind!
- 9) On Superman's travels: A journey of a thousand miles takes about a second.
 - 8a) Teenaged Clark, on learning to travel Super-style: If at first you don't succeed, fly, fly again.
 - 8b) Martha, on cooking: If at first you don't succeed, fry, fry again.
 - 8c) Cat, on flirting: If at first you don't succeed, ply, ply again.
 - 8d) Tempus: If at first you don't succeed, go back in time, stupid!
- 7) Clark, on using his costume to help differentiate himself from his alter ego: Clothing makes the Superman.
- 6) What's in a name? Kal-El by any other name would be as strong.
 - 5) Tempus, the narcissist: The best thing in life is me.
 - 4) Tempus, on defeating Herbert: All's well that ends Wells.
 - 3) Jimmy, on rescuing his girlfriend: A Penny saved is a Penny earned.
 - 2) Lex, during the middle of one of his schemes: If you can't stand the heat, get Superman out of Metropolis!
 - 1) H.G. Wells: A stitch in time saves Utopia.
