

Fractured Proverbs for Fanfic Authors

By Lynn S. M. <lois_and_clark_fan_at_verizon.net
(Replace_at_with@)>

Rated: G

Submitted: February 2012

Summary: Ben Franklin would roll over in his grave...

Disclaimer: Lois and Clark aren't mine. Neither are the original proverbs.

- 1) A fic on the board is worth two in the head.
- 2) You can catch more feedback with WAFFy than you can with WHAMmy fic.
- 3) Don't count your fanfics before they are written.
- 4) The bigger they are, the more posts you'll need.
- 5) If a story's worth writing, it's worth writing well.
- 6) If you can't say something nice about someone, then write from Lex' POV.
- 7) Early to bed and early to rise gives one plenty of time to write fanfic before the rest of the house awakens.
- 8) A fanfic a day keeps the boredom away.
- 9) Two BRs are better than one.
- 10) If at first you don't succeed, then write, write again.

And a bonus combination proverb and a (not terribly rigorous) proof:

Time flies like an arrow; Superman flies faster than a speeding bullet. Speeding bullets are faster than arrows, therefore Superman flies faster than time itself. (I present as evidence the first Christopher Reeve movie.)

THE END